

Terrain.org

A Journal of the Built & Natural Environments

10th Anniversary Reading

Thursday, January 31, 2008 : 6:00 - 8:00 p.m.

The Cornelia Street Café : 29 Cornelia Street : New York City

$7 cover includes one house drink : Join us in the back dining room, upstairs

Award-winning poetry & prose from

- Scott Edward Anderson – a poet who writes The Green Skeptic blog.
- Teague Bohlen – whose first novel, The Pull of the Earth, won the Colorado Book Award for Fiction in 2007.
- Simmons B. Buntin – the founding editor of Terrain.org. His first book of poetry is Riverfall.
- Scott Calhoun – whose first book, Yard Full of Sun, was awarded the 2006 American Horticultural Society Book Award. His newest book is Chasing Wildflowers.
- Philip Fried – who has published three volumes of poetry: Mutual Trespasses, Quantum Genesis, and Big Men Speaking to Little Men.
- Deborah Fries – the author of Various Modes of Departure, winner of the Kore Press First Book Award.
- Suzanne Frischkorn – whose first book of poetry, Lit Windowpane, is due from Main Street Rag in Autumn 2008.
- Donna J. Gelagotis Lee – whose book of poetry is On the Altar of Greece, winner of the Gival Press Poetry Award and a 2007 Eric Hoffer Book Award.
- Dennis Must – who has two collections of short stories, Banjo Grease and Oh, Don't Ask Why.
- Shann Palmer – a Texas poet who lives in Virginia.
- David Rothenberg – a jazz clarinetist and the author of Sudden Music, Always the Mountains, Why Birds Sing, and the forthcoming Thousand Mile Song.
- Andrew Wingfield – an essay and fiction writer whose novel is Hear Him Roar.
- Jake Adam York – whose first book of poems is Murder Ballads, and whose second, A Murmuration of Starlings, is due out in early 2008.

Coming to the AWP Conference?

Join Terrain.org staff and contributors at Table #480, located in the Hilton Americas Hall II – access from 3rd floor.